Not Recommended - candidate is unlikely to be successful in the MSW or MA-SIL program.

5. The School values receiving comprehensive evaluations that help assess an applicant's potential for success in graduate social work or social impact leadership education and future professional practice. We encourage recommenders to provide comments in the section below and/or via a separate letter, highlighting significant actions, accomplishments, and personal qualities related to success in scholarly achievement and/or professional contexts. Detailed narratives are preferred over brief comments and general praises (i.e., several paragraphs over one or two sentences).

The most effective recommendations come from individuals who know the applicant well and can objectively compare them to their academic/professional peers. Insights into the applicant's character that emphasize specific skills like readiness for professional social work or social impact leadership education and practice, communication skills, growth potential, as well as any obstacles they have overcome (e.g. economic or social challenges), are particularly valuable. Providing academic and professional support is a core aspect of U-M School of Social Work education. As such, it is most helpful for recommenders to honestly address both the applicant's strengths and areas of needed support.
