Course Description:
This course presents social work foundation knowledge and skills essential to interpersonal practice with individuals, families and small groups in social contexts. It integrates content on multiculturalism, diversity, and social justice issues, and it relies on the historical, contextual, and social science knowledge presented concurrently in the foundation SWPS and HBSE courses. The student's field experience and future practice methods courses will build upon the skills presented in this basic course. Throughout this course, students examine social work values and ethics as well as issues of race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, socio-economic status, age, religion, and ability as these relate to interpersonal practice.

Course Content:
This course builds a base from behavioral and social science theories to inform the practice concepts and skills taught in this course. Students learn how to perform various social work roles (i.e. counselor/clinical social worker, group facilitator, mediator, and advocate), recognizing that these roles must adhere to social work values and ethics. Students learn the importance of developing relationships with clients, colleagues, supervisors, other professionals, and many other constituencies. Students also learn how self-awareness and the conscious use of self affect the helping relationship and how to apply practice skills such as active listening, empathic responding, contracting, critical and creative thinking in practice.

In this course, all phases of the IP treatment process (i.e. engagement, assessment, intervention and evaluation) are presented and applied to social work practice with individuals, families, and small groups. Students learn how to assess vulnerabilities and strengths in clients' lives that relate to attributes (e.g. ability, age, class, color, culture, ethnicity, family structure, gender {including gender identity and gender expression}, marital status, national origin, race, religion or spirituality, sex, and sexual orientation) as well as situational and environmental factors relevant to the client's social functioning. Students learn how to assess risks, and barriers, and to plan, implement and monitor change strategies. Students learn how to apply various evaluation techniques in order to demonstrate effectiveness.

Course Objectives:
Upon completion of this course, students using a social work practice framework will be able to:
1. Describe and apply research-based knowledge and frameworks in interpersonal practice with individuals, families and small groups and critique the strengths and weaknesses of these various frameworks. (Practice Behaviors 3.1, 3.2, 6.2, 7.1, 10b.4)
2. Recognize the potential impact of race, gender, ethnicity, social class, sexual orientation, power and privilege on interpersonal practice. (Practice Behaviors 4.1, 4.3, 5.1)
3. Carry out the roles of counselor/clinical social worker, client services manager, group facilitator mediator, and advocate in a culturally responsive manner (by attending to social identities such as... race, gender, ethnicity, social class, sexual orientation, and to power and privilege). (Practice Behaviors 1.1, 1.3, 4.1, 4.2, 4.4, 5.2, 5.3, 10c.2, 10c.3, 10c.4)

4. Demonstrate basic interpersonal practice skills including active listening, empathic responding, critical/creative thinking, case recording, and contracting. (Practice Behaviors 1.4, 3.1, 3.3, 10a.1, 10a.2, 10a.3)

5. Operationalize the NASW code of ethics and other ethical codes, and recognize value dilemmas that emerge in interpersonal practice. (Practice Behaviors 2.2, 2.3)

Course Design:
This course employs a number of pedagogical strategies to promote skill development such as: simulations, case analysis, interactive media simulations, exercises in vivo, practice within the classroom through role playing, didactic presentation of theory/models/procedures, etc.

Theme Relation to Multiculturalism & Diversity is included in the topics of relationship building, communication, assessment, intervention, termination and evaluation. These topics explore how the differences between worker and client impact and shape these critical dimensions of social work practice. Critical consciousness about power imbalances between worker and client and between client and agency are explored.

Theme Relation to Social Justice are central to the topic of various roles assumed by social workers and in the clienthood process in social agencies. The focus of the course is on small system change (individual, families, and groups) but the larger social context and implications for change is reflected in PIE, ecological assessment, and in the experience of applicants as they enter social agencies. These themes are integrated into this course through the use of case examples and case scenarios that will be selected by the instructor to exemplify skills in practice.

Theme Relation to Promotion, Prevention, Treatment & Rehabilitation are themes reflected in various purposes and models of contemporary social work practice. In addition, this course emphasizes skills that can be implemented with promotion, prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation as practice goals and outcomes.

Theme Relation to Behavioral and Social Science Research is reflected in the theoretical base developed in this course to support practice methods, skills and assessment procedures.

Relationship to SW Ethics and Values
Social work ethics and values are addressed within the course as they pertain to issues related to working with clients and colleagues. The NASW Code of Ethics and other ethical codes are presented to give students direction about these ethical issues. In particular, this course focuses on client issues, such as confidentiality, privacy, rights and prerogatives of clients, the client's best interest, proper and improper relationships with clients, cultural sensitivity and competence.

Course Requirements
The University of Michigan expects a student to put in a minimum of two hours weekly preparation for each credit awarded in a graduate/professional school. Thus, you are expected to spend a minimum of six hours per week of preparation for this class. The assignments in this class have been developed to help the student systematically strengthen social work knowledge and practice skills and to enable the student to achieve successfully the goals and objectives of the course.

A Note on Scholarly Discourse
What we will discuss in the class involves controversial issues, such as race, ethnicity, gender, class, immigration, and sexual orientation. All of us come to this course with various experiences and values, as well as assumptions, prejudices, and stereotypes. Disagreements are expected and even welcomed as long as we respect diverse opinions and perspectives and refrain from attacking one another personally. Let us strive to remain open to diverse perspectives, which may conflict with our own.

Text Book & Course Reader

Required texts and readings:
- Other required readings are available at the CANVAS course site.

Recommended books and readings:
- Recommended readings are available at the CANVAS course site.

ASSIGNMENTS AND DUE DATES (see pp. 9-10 for more detail)

We will be using a mastery-based, not a competitive, grading system. In other words, the grade you get will not depend on how well others in the class have done but on how well you have mastered the materials.

1. Class Attendance, Participation & Reflection Papers 15%
2. Positionality Paper 25% Due 10/4/15 8pm EST
3. Critique and Reflection of the First Interview 30% Due 10/18/15 8pm EST
4. Assessment & Intervention Plan Paper 30% Due TBD

Grading: Letter grades ranging from “A” to “E” are earned, with “+” or “-” distinguishing the degree of performance. Specific expectations for each assignment are provided in a later section of this syllabus.

Accommodations: Any student who feels that he/she may need an accommodation for any sort of disability, please make an appointment to see me as soon as possible.

Class Attendance & Participation: This class involves a wide range of experiential learning exercises, and therefore, class attendance and participation are critical to achieving the full impact of the course. You are expected to actively participate in class discussions, small group discussions, and various in-class exercises, some of which will require submitting a written report at the end of the class. Class attendance will be taken at random, and any unexcused absences will result in a grade reduction. You need to inform the instructor of your absence as soon as is practically possible.

If you have a disability or condition that may interfere with your participation in this course, please schedule a private appointment with me as soon as possible to discuss accommodations for your specific needs. This information is kept confidential. For more information and resources, please contact the Services for Students with Disabilities Office at G664 Haven Hall, G-664 Haven Hall, 505 South State St., Ann Arbor, MI 48109-1045, TEL 734-763-3000, http://ssd.umich.edu/, Email ssdoffice@umich.edu.

If you have difficulties participating in discussion for linguistic, cultural or other reasons, let’s discuss them individually and explore ways in which you may become a more active participant in class.

Incompletes: Incompletes are given only when it can be demonstrated that it would be unfair to hold the student to the stated time limits of the course. The student must formally request an incomplete from the instructor prior to the final week of classes.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

We adhere to high standards of academic integrity. Please familiarize yourself with the Rackham Academic and Professional Integrity Policy (http://www.rackham.umich.edu/current-students/policies/academic-policies/section10), which defines The Roles and Responsibilities of Graduate Students and Forms of Academic and Professional Misconduct.

Any student caught plagiarizing or cheating in any way will earn a failing grade in this course and may be expelled from the University of Michigan. Other forms of Academic and Professional Misconduct include a wide range of behaviors, such as abuse of confidentiality and obstruction of the academic activities and scholarly research of another (e.g., harassment, intimidation, or tampering with data, records and notes).

The Library Research Guide on Academic Integrity in Social Work is also available at http://guides.lib.umich.edu/swintegrity.

SELF and GROUP CARE

The course topics and materials have the potential to elicit distress, anxiety, a sense of helplessness, rage, and other strong and/or traumatic reactions. While these reactions are common and natural, they may be intense and may interfere with your personal and academic life. It is important to recognize your reactions (in other words, do not deny them, but explore and develop ways to process them). We as a group will acknowledge and address our reactions through class discussions, reflective writings and other means. I hope we can create a mutually supportive learning environment for all of us in the class.

If you experience a persistent and increasing sense of distress, anxiety, or trauma, it is important to seek assistance. The following are some of the resources available on and off campus. The instructor is happy to assist you in locating any additional resources you may need.

ASSIGNMENTS

Guidelines for Written Assignments

All written assignments will be evaluated for organization, clarity, and written quality, as well as for substantive content. In addition, they must:

- Be typed and double-spaced.
- Page number on each page.
- Be submitted on CANVAS (late papers will result in the deduction of 1/2 a letter grade).
- Follow an established academic convention for organization, pagination, footnoting, and bibliographic references (e.g., APA style). Papers that do not comply with an established convention will be returned, and a penalty for late submission will be applied.
- Consult the Student Guide to make sure you are citing others’ work appropriately and not committing plagiarism.

1. Class Attendance, Participation & Reflection Papers

   You need to come to class well-prepared, which means doing all the readings and identifying issues for which you need clarification or further exploration. You are expected to actively participate in class discussion, small group discussion and various in-class exercises (e.g., role-plays).

   Frequently, you will write and submit a short reflection of your learning at the end of the class. Some of the reflections will be shared anonymously in the class to aid mutual learning.

2. Positionality Paper. 3-5 typed pages

   Based on the social identity inventory (to be provided in class), you create an imaginary client who would present particular challenges to work with (e.g., those who least embodies who and what you are socio-culturally, those with whom you share a lot in common). Imagine you are asked to work with that person. In this paper, you will:

   1) identify and reflect on how you would feel about working with this imaginary client prior to the first encounter, what feelings and thoughts you may experience while you are interacting with the client, and what difficulty, if any, you may experience;
   2) discuss how you might deal with the above inside and outside the session;
   3) examine what strengths you bring to working with this client;
   4) discuss what reactions your client may have toward you, and how you might address them; and
   5) discuss what new insight, if any, have you developed about your positionalities as you worked on this assignment.

Some helpful tips:

- Focus on yourself. Applying the PIE perspective and locate yourself in the environment. Your positionalities interact with those of your imaginary client in the specific socio-cultural, -political, and -historical context.
- You are strongly encouraged to explore many dimensions of your positionalities, especially those that you have not been given much attention or thought before. Some of your positionalities are familiar to you, and others, not so familiar. You may not have thought of some of them as important dimensions of you as a person and/or as a social worker. Some give you varying degrees of privilege, and others are associated with experiences of oppression and discrimination. Importantly, you do have feelings about many of these positionalities, which may get triggered in various social work practice contexts whether you are aware or not.
- Listen to yourself, and reflect on your thoughts and feelings, and be candid about what you feel (what you think would feel) in working with your imaginary client.
- Refrain from intellectualizing your feelings although it is tempting. You are encouraged and expected to write about your feelings and thoughts in the first person account.
- You are encouraged to refer to the readings and class discussions when/where you can.
3. Critique and Reflection of the First Interview
In this paper, you will reflect on your first session with the simulated client, focusing on engagement and interview skills.
* More detailed instructions will be provided in class to guide you on this assignment.

4. Assessment & Intervention Plan Paper
You will watch a video-taped interview and develop a multi-dimensional assessment and plan for intervention. Detailed guidelines and instructions for the paper will be provided in class.
