Seminar Description

This course is designed for students in the New Leaders in African-Centered Social Work (NLACSW) scholars program. Using a portfolio model offered by the School of Social Work, students will integrate knowledge gained from NLACSW-required courses, their field placement, and support and consultation meetings with other coursework and learning experiences related to their method and practice area concentrations. Participating students will consult with faculty advisors, instructors, agency staff, and/or peers in developing the portfolio. Before the end of the term in which the capstone course is offered, students will present their e-portfolios to an audience of community leaders. This will occur in class, but also possibly at their field placement agency or in another School of Social Work/University venue if relevant.

Seminar Objectives

Upon completion, scholars in this seminar will:

1. Identify the salient elements of their experience as a NLACSW scholar;
2. Demonstrate knowledge around an African-centered perspective;
3. Demonstrate knowledge about issues and interventions in African American communities and the role of social work in this context;
4. Generate an integrative learning ePortfolio that integrates skills, theory, and knowledge acquired by students during their master's level experience in the NLACSW scholars program.

Course Design

While using the lecture/discussion mode as the primary pattern, class sessions will also include skill building activities and exercises, speakers, and videos.

Theme Relation to Multiculturalism & Diversity:	Multi-culturalism and Diversity will be addressed by examining how culture, ethnicity, and race intersect with multiple social identities to impact the development of services and delivery of interventions in African American communities.
Theme Relation to Social Justice:	Scholars will critically assess their commitment to and skills for enacting change toward social justice goals. The role of the social worker will be discussed as reflected by their individual experiences and reflection.
Theme Relation to Promotion, Prevention, Treatment & Rehabilitation:	Scholars will consider both micro and macro interventions and the relationship of quality of service in African American communities.
Theme Relation to Behavioral and Social Science Research:	Behavioral and Social Science Research will be incorporated throughout the course, drawing on the history and impact of service to African American communities and implications for practice.
Relationship to SW Ethics and Values:	Social Work Ethics and Values are of central importance in thinking about work in African American communities. Topics such as values, cultural, and religious difference, and differential access to resources should be addressed. The NASW Code of Ethics are available to give students direction about ethical issues.

Seminar Requirements:

1. Scholars must attend each scheduled meeting. If there is an emergency or documented illness, the instructor should be notified.
2. Completion of a reflection activity and ePortfolio. Through the integrative portfolio-based learning process, the author (i.e. scholar) is in control of their own learning and development and therefore the outcomes from this process can be richly diverse as well as continuous.

In addition, our class will have a Canvas website where other required updates and announcements will be posted. Login to the Canvas portal at: <https://canvas.umich.edu> to find the course materials.

Assignments & Grading

There are two (2) primary assignments for this course as well as an expectation of attendance and class participation when we meet as a group. These assignments are summarized below.

Grading for the seminar will be satisfactory (S) or unsatisfactory (U).

Seminar Assignments

1. Reflection Activity - Developing your Personal/Philosophy Statement (4-page maximum)

- a. What has motivated you to pursue social work as a career?
-Reflect on any personal, academic, and work related experiences that influenced you.
- b. Upon graduation, what area of work would you like to be involved in? What communities and groups of people would you like to work with? And why?
- c. How will what you have learned in the social work program prepare you for this work?
-Reflect on course assignments and activities, your field placement experience, and your involvement in other social work or university activities.
- d. What skills have you acquired through your participation in the New Leaders in African-Centered Social Work scholars program? How will you apply these skills to practice?

2. ePortfolio and Oral Presentation

Develop a web-based professional portfolio using the Seelio platform <https://seelio.com/>. Complete the online module that addresses each component of the ePortfolio building. The online module is located at <https://ssw.umich.edu/my-ssw/msw-forms/eportfolio>

The Seelio platform submission should include the following:

- a. Personal/Philosophy Statement
- b. Resume
- c. A minimum of 3 Key Learning Experiences/Work Projects (grants, presentations, program development activities, etc.)
-When possible embed/attach Supporting Documentation with each Key Learning Experience

-One of the key learning projects should include a discussion of your goals and ideas about how you would like to work in the African American community in the future. This will be presented the last day of class to a community panel. This one project should represent a new product and not just the reposting of a previous assignment.

PLEASE NOTE:

Accommodations

If you have a disability or condition that may interfere with your participation in this course, please schedule a private appointment with me as soon as possible to discuss accommodations for your specific needs.
