Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

*If you think you need an accommodation for a disability, please let me know at your earliest convenience. Some aspects of this course, the assignments, the in-class activities, and the way we teach may be modified to facilitate your participation and progress. As soon as you make me aware of your needs, we can work with the Office of Services for Students with Disabilities \(SSD\) (Links to an external site.) to help us determine appropriate accommodations. SSD (734-763-3000 or ssd.umich.edu (Links to an external site.)) typically recommends accommodations through a Verified Individualized Services and Accommodations (VISA) form. I will treat any information you provide as private and confidential.*

1. Course Statement

a. Course description

Latinos constitute the largest ethnic minority group in the United States. The United States Latino population is immensely diverse, with members originating from over twenty countries. The mini course will allow for students to become familiar with demographic trends, health disparities, acculturation and acculturative stress, and the current debates surrounding the immigrant health paradox. Additionally, this mini course will cover key methodological approaches aimed at engaging Latino families in mental health and health care services, as well as barriers and facilitators to mental health and health care utilization. Furthermore, the course focuses on clinical aspects of working with Latino families, including but not limited to, culturally congruent assessment, and prevention and treatment models.

b. Course content

This course presents advanced topics in interpersonal practice. The topics may include emerging practice methods, advanced application of methods covered in other required methods courses, and applications of methods in specific populations.

c. Course objectives and competencies

- Describe the prevalence and risk and protective factors associated with general behavioral and mental health conditions among Latino families.
- Identify theoretical frameworks to inform approaches to working with Latino families
- Identify culturally specific screening and assessment tools when working with Latino families
- Describe prevention and treatment approaches when working with Latino families.
- Identify and describe the political landscape of Latinos in the United States.
- Demonstrate skills to conceptualize a treatment plan when working with Latino families

d. Course design

Two day Summer Mini Course

e. Curricular themes

Students in this course will acquire a general understanding of (1) the demographic, social and political background of Latino families in the United States, (2) key theoretical frameworks to consider (e.g., acculturative stress) when working with Latino families, (3) culturally-specific assessment, prevention and treatment approaches for health and well-being, and (3) acquire a general understanding of clinical aspects when working with Latino families in the United States.

f. Relationship to social work ethics and values

Latino sub-populations tend to reside in different areas of the United States, have different cultural practices/norms, immigration experiences, and varying levels of economic attainment. These sources of internal variation are important, as they have implications for many social outcomes and social work practice with Latino families. This mini course focuses on the theoretical, empirical and practice literature on Latino families in the United States.

2. Class Requirements

a. Text and class materials

See Resource List (Below)

- All materials will be posted to Canvas
- Expectations around completing readings: To fully engage in the course topic and become a competent and skilled social work practitioner, it is expected that students will complete all required readings.
- Required readings will be discussed/debriefed in class via small group and large group discussions.
- Additional (supplemental) readings are available in Canvas. Although these readings are not required, they may be helpful in developing a fuller understanding of the content and process related to the course.
- All readings will be posted on Canvas at the beginning of the course.
