

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Strategic Plan
Five-Year Strategic Objectives, Measures and FY18 Actions
Year Two Guidelines

I. Diversity Equity and Inclusion Strategic Plan: Overview

Beginning in September 2015, the University of Michigan School of Social Work (SSW) engaged in a seven month-long planning activity to improve diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) within the School in the context of its vision, mission, and goals. This report outlines the results of this planning process and presents a 5-year plan. The report begins with an overview of the SSW's vision, mission, and goals and the social work profession's goals and ethics. This is followed by an overview of our plan for working towards greater diversity, equity, and inclusion. The report concludes with a detailed list of strategic objectives, measures, and timeline.

Social work professional values and the Code of Ethics of the National Association of Social Workers (NASW) serve as guides to the profession and the School of Social Work on working for justice and change by reducing the inequities of poverty, exclusion, exploitation, violence, oppression, powerlessness, and the dominance of particular cultural norms and values. The Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) outlines competencies and practice behaviors for masters-level curricula that are directly related to working for justice and engaging with diverse populations. In this strategic plan, we identify areas we want to consolidate and maintain, and key priorities for intensive work to move to new phases. In undertaking this plan, we define justice broadly, including social, economic, cultural, environmental, restorative, and other foci.

The School of Social Work (SSW) vision is:

A Better Society through Individual and Social Change

The SSW mission statement is:

Advancing the social work profession's vision and values, the University of Michigan School of Social Work seeks to develop a more equitable, caring, and socially just society. Such a society meets basic human needs, eliminates social and economic inequities, and empowers individuals, their communities, and institutions to reach their aspirations and potential. Drawing on an interdisciplinary faculty within a public university seated in a region of enormous need and promise, the School is dedicated to education, research, and service that fosters progressive change at local, national, and global levels.

SSW's goals are:

- The School will provide an excellent education to students and practitioners in the knowledge and skills needed for contemporary and evolving social work practice.

- The School will create and disseminate knowledge about individual, community, and organizational concerns; social issues; social policy; and practice interventions, within a tradition of multi-disciplinary and multi-professional research.
- The School will engage in service to the community, the profession, and society through collaboration and leadership.

The above vision, mission, and goals are consistent with the social work profession's purpose, as defined by CSWE, as well as the NASW Code of Ethics.

The Purpose of Social Work Practice and Education according to CSWE:

The purpose of the social work profession is to promote human and community well-being. Guided by a person-in-environment framework, a global perspective, respect for human diversity, and knowledge based on scientific inquiry, the purpose of social work is actualized through its quest for social and economic justice, the prevention of conditions that limit human rights, the elimination of poverty, and the enhancement of the quality of life for all persons, locally and globally.

The NASW Code of Ethics states that:

The primary mission of social work is to enhance human well-being and help meet the basic human needs of all people, with particular attention to the needs and empowerment of people who are vulnerable, oppressed, and living in poverty... Fundamental to social work is attention to the environmental forces that create, contribute to, and address problems in living... Social workers promote social justice and social change with and on behalf of clients... Social workers are sensitive to cultural and ethnic diversity and strive to end discrimination, oppression, poverty, and other forms of social injustice.

In response to these vision, mission, goals, and ethics statements, the SSW works with communities, both internally and externally to further justice and remove barriers limiting human potential and healthy development. CSWE, the social work accrediting agency, defines field-based education as the “signature pedagogy” for social work, and the SSW partners with 400+ organizations external to the SSW, and 600+ field-based instructors who supervise field education for MSW students. Also, the Society for Social Work Research (SSWR) has defined multiple “grand challenges” for social work, all of which require active engagement in working for societal change. Thus, any plan focused on DEI must not only focus within the SSW, but also must embrace community-based agendas and multiple external constituencies and issues.

We understand Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion as a process to:

- Evolve over time, and is developed and sustained by the efforts of administrators, staff, faculty, students, and many collaborators and constituencies external to the SSW.
- Require a shared working definition and understanding of DEI as the basis for collaboration and community support (students, faculty, staff, field instructors, and community members within and outside the SSW) to work together towards social justice and change.

- Employ a bottom-up, community-engaged, approach to developing DEI in our School and with the various communities external to the SSW.
- Emphasize the creation of a just, challenging, and supportive environment for education for people with multiple positionalities in society. Race and ethnicity are important positionalities, but we also include age, class, color, culture, disability and ability, gender, gender identity and expression, immigration status, marital status, physical appearance, height, weight, veteran status, political ideology, national origin, religion/spirituality, sex, sexual orientation and/or identity, socioeconomic status, tribal sovereign status, and others important in particular contexts and environments.
- Incorporate the examination of causes and consequences of inequities and mechanisms that sustain inequity, including exclusion, and deep knowledge of oneself as a practitioner, including one's own worldviews, implicit and explicit biases, knowledge, skills, and interaction styles.

Our plan is based on the need for the physical, psychological, social, moral, fiscal, and academic health of all involved, regardless of what our activities might be (e.g., teaching, learning, research, work to change society).

Our beginning assumptions include the following:

1. DEI is an educational imperative. Multiple kinds of diversity increase learning and are required to conduct effective social work practice with social justice goals. The UM produced substantial research about the educational benefits of diversity on a great many dimensions. This diversity must exist among students, faculty, administrators, staff, and collaborators.
2. DEI is required for social work practice and for citizenship in an increasingly diverse and unjust world.
3. DEI is also an ethical issue, since historically the sociopolitical structure of the SSW and University may have had the effect of excluding or making it difficult for certain groups to have access to knowledge and learning.
4. DEI is a fiscal issue. Empirical evidence suggests that DEI may attract more talent into the University and thus help increase the talent base of the University, attract different types of research and research funding, and improve the quality of teaching with diverse didactic techniques.

Principles underlying our plan include the following:

5. DEI issues affect, and need to improve across all constituencies: administrators, staff, faculty, and students.
6. DEI will only improve when structural barriers, unearned privilege, racism, homophobia, xenophobia, and other forms of fear and oppression are addressed in their multiple manifestations.
7. DEI needs to be studied and addressed from “insider” and “outsider” perspectives.

8. DEI needs to integrate diverse ways of thinking in order to incorporate different definitions of talent, progress, and excellence. Development: Who defines “talent” and are different definitions allowed and valued once DEI is achieved.

9. DEI efforts need to include all constituencies of the University (administrators, staff, faculty, and students) in order to develop a workplace and educational climate that feels and is demonstrably equitable and inclusive of all. It also requires strong relationships and commitments to communities outside the UM; field instructors, community members, and those affected by injustice.

Implementation Highlights and Planning Process Used

Many factors contributed to our progress and success of implementing our DEI plan. This included factors that are internal to our school and to our organizational mission in addition to factors in our larger institutional environment. We have been able to make substantial progress in a very short time frame and during a time of significant organizational change and these supportive factors were critical for our success.

Our School of Social Work strategic plan for diversity, equity and inclusion is the product of a very comprehensive and thoughtful process. The co-leads for the planning process included an associate dean and a senior faculty member who had considerable experience with planning and DEI issues. They engaged all of the constituents within our school – faculty, students, and staff – in ongoing discussion and self-study of DEI issues in our school and objectives and goals for the future. This resulted in a plan with considerable depth and breadth that could serve as a roadmap for implementation.

One recommendation in our DEI plan was for a new office for diversity, equity and inclusion that would coordinate DEI activities. We envisioned an office that would coordinate and catalyze changes in existing offices (e.g. student services, admissions) and groups (e.g. curriculum committee, search committee) within and outside the School. The role of the office would be to provide strong facilitation, lead ongoing participatory planning activities, and to institutionalize strong measures of accountability. The vision was for an office that had both the responsibility and authority to implement our plan.

Our plan was approved during a time of considerable institutional change. Our new dean, Lynn Videka, came onboard during summer term 2016 and one of her first tasks was to appoint a new director of this new office. Dean Videka brought to our school considerable experience as a dean at two other schools of social work and demonstrated a commitment to DEI. Her expertise and commitment was a significant factor in making progress and in appointing a senior faculty member whose scholarship on diversity and empowerment has influenced the entire field of social, Lorraine Gutiérrez, as the director of the DEI office. Prof. Gutiérrez, a recognized leader in DEI issues in the social work field, also brought a deep and broad background and commitment to the work. The decisions to position the director of the DEI office as a direct report to the Dean of the school demonstrates the level of support from the highest levels in the school.

In academic year 2016-17 the School began a strategic planning process that involved faculty, alumni, students and community partners. The School’s Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (D, E and I) strategic plan was completed prior to the launch of the school-wide plan. Our approach has been to integrate the two planning processes. The D, E and I strategic plan served as a model for an action-oriented plan for the entire school. We did not attempt to replace or recreate the existing plan. Instead, the School used it to infuse D, E and I goals, objectives, and action steps in other areas of the Schools future vision such as curriculum, faculty and student recruitment and the climate of the School community; and focused on engaging the entire school community in implementation of the D, E and I strategic plan including discussions of this Year 2 Implementation Plan. The School's strategic plan is still in development. The grand vision is for the University of Michigan School of Social Work will lead the social work profession—including education, knowledge development and practice --as it moves into the next generation. Objectives and action steps for the School of Social Work Strategic Plan are nested under 6 goal areas:

- Delivering best practice education that is original, creative, and prepares graduates for leadership of the profession and promotes collaboration with other professionals.
- Improving access to a U-M SSW affordable education.
- Leading the profession in advancing the scientific basis of the social work and interdisciplinary knowledge that informs solutions for social and human problems.
- Engaging with the regional, state, national and global communities and organizations to advance social justice and create progressive change.
- Building and sustaining a school community that is based on respect for all and dedication to diversity, equity, and inclusion.
- Enhance the visibility of our School and value of the profession across the University, country, and world.

The funding support from the Provost's office for Year One of implementation provided us with some resources for establishing our DEI office. Our dean was willing to supplement this with additional funds and to also assign a faculty member, with a course reduction, The faculty director was also provided with summer support in order to carry out work over the outside of the academic year. Dean Videka's willingness to invest the school's resources into the DEI plan made a significant difference.

A 33%-time faculty director and a project manager with teaching responsibilities staff our DEI office. Our posting for the project manager yielded over 70 applications with many highly qualified and impressive applicants. This search resulted in an internal hire from our Office of Student Services. Ms. Lauren Davis LMSW, who had worked in the SSW for nine years in student services, and brought considerable skill and experience to the position. The staffing of our office with highly skilled, committed, and engaged personnel has been an important factor for our progress.

The mission of our School of Social Work, which reflects the field's values and ethics, has also contributed to our progress. It clearly states the importance of equity, progressive change, and empowerment. Our accreditation requirements require education regarding human diversity, social justice, and strategies to advance human rights and equity. This provides a context in which diversity, equity and inclusion are recognized as central to our teaching, scholarship, and service. Our plan provided a platform for faculty, students, and staff to identify how these professional commitments can be integrated into the work we are doing and learning to do.

The overall institutional leadership from President Schlissel and Provost Sellers as well as the UM DEI team provided significant support for the work and a platform for our efforts.

Year One Data Collection and Evaluation

Our plan touches on every aspect of our school; therefore our data collection was dependent on gathering information from many different offices within our school. The DEI office used data that we have collected from our meetings with students, faculty, staff and administrators as part of our work. For example, a summary of the themes that emerged in our DEI drop in dialogues with students provided important process evaluation data. We also collected student enrollment data, data on staff and faculty hiring processes, committee reports, and student financial aid data in evaluation progress on action items. As stated above, the School strategic planning process, and especially the faculty's August 28th retreat and September 6th faculty meeting included discussion of the DEI Strategic Plan Year One achievements and goals and action steps for 2017-18.

II. Data and Analysis: Key Findings

During this past year we were able to make excellent progress on all of our objectives and most of our action items. The overall leadership in our school facilitated this progress.

Key Findings

Our engagement activities and data collection processes reinforced many of the findings of our initial strategic planning process. However, our implementation activities and new data collection revealed many of the processes behind the issues that were previously identified. In some cases, such as staff hiring, we learned that previous practices had been inadvertently dropped and they were easily adopted. An example of this is posting all of our job openings on the school's website. In other instances we learned that resources existed, such as the UM Expect Respect program, but that students were unaware of them or unsure of how to access them. In these cases we have focused on creating greater transparency and information regarding what is available.

Over the first nine months of implementation we were also able to identify objectives and action steps that would require more significant change in policies and practices in our school. In some cases, such as faculty hiring, we were able to implement new practices (e.g. the ADVANCE training, changing questions in our interviews and screening materials, information re: DEI in our job announcement) that resulted in a number of hires of new faculty who can contribute significantly to DEI through their related scholarship, teaching or service. Other more significant changes, which are currently underway, will require changes in budget or structures and are under longer-term development. An example of this is analyzing our current budget and policies for MSW student financial aid and moving towards a more needs based approach.

Pathways to conflict resolution

The School of Social Work has in place internal and external mechanisms for conflict resolution affecting faculty, staff, and students. For faculty the major policy is outlined in our faculty handbook which reflects policies and practices in the Section 10.H. The Dean or one of the Associate Deans attempt to resolve faculty conflicts in an equitable manner before they reach the grievance process.

A grievance process for Post-doctoral research fellows is also outlined in our faculty handbook. It outlines an internal process which involves the Associate Dean for Research or Dean in handling grievances. If a grievance cannot be handled satisfactorily within the school it can be reported to the Dean of Rackham or the UM Ombudsman.

Our MSW and Doctoral program student guides outline mechanisms for student conflicts and grievances. Students are also informed about their rights regarding appeal and other resources. In each handbook, UM SSW staff directs students to the U-M Office of Student Conflict Resolution (OSCR), which administers the Statement of Student Rights and Responsibilities and offers conflict resolution services for cases where the SSW process may not apply. Our Social Work Student Union, which represents MSW students, also has an Ombudsperson who can address conflicts within that program.

UM SSW Staff are covered by SPG Policy 201.08. The School of Social Work has no additional policy and staff are informed of their options during orientation.

At all levels, most of the conflicts are resolved before a formal case is brought. This is due to the professionalism of our Dean's office, our SSW Director of Administration, Finance and Operations who handles staff issues, the Director of the Doctoral Program and the Office of Student Services staff. Students are also empowered to resolve their own conflicts. Over the past ten years we have had very few grievance hearings... It is important to monitor both the number of conflicts brought forward and those that transition into a formal grievance process as our student body becomes increasingly diverse and the number of cultural approaches to conflict resolution increases.
