Michigan Community Research & Action Workgroup (M-CRAW)
An interdisciplinary workgroup for community-focused, ecologically-minded, and social justice-oriented research

NOVEMBER 7th, 4-6 PM, 4448 EAST HALL

Join us for the first M-CRAW panel event of the year! Michigan faculty from education, public health, social work, and psychology will speak about how the interdisciplinary field of community psychology contributes to, compliments, and/or critiques the status quo of research in their respective disciplines. Dr. Edison Trickett from the University of Illinois-Chicago will be our guest discussant. Want to know more about community psychology at the University of Michigan? Come and find out!

Light refreshments provided. Open to students and faculty from all disciplines. Please RSVP to Lauren Reed at reedla@umich.edu.

Edison Trickett, Ph.D. (Discussant)
Psychology-Community and Prevention Research, University of Illinois-Chicago
Culture, social context, and collaboration in conducting community-based research and intervention. Public schools and the acculturation and adaptation of immigrant and refugee adolescents and families.

Stephanie Rowley, Ph.D.
Combined Program in Education and Psychology, University of Michigan
Development of achievement motivations and academic self-views, especially as they relate to race and gender. Parent socialization and its effect on children’s motivation and identity.

Marc Zimmerman, Ph.D.
School of Public Health, Combined Program in Education and Psychology, Center for Growth and Human Development, University of Michigan
Empowerment theory, adolescent health and resiliency, community-based research methods.

Lorraine Gutierrez, Ph.D.
Joint Program in Social Work and Psychology, University of Michigan
Multicultural and community organization practice and methods for multicultural education in higher education.

Joseph Gone, Ph.D.
Psychology- Clinical Science, American Culture- Native American Studies, University of Michigan
Cultural psychology of self, identity, personhood, and social relations in indigenous community settings vis-à-vis the mental health professions, focusing on psychotherapy and traditional healing.