The Psychology Program at the University of West Georgia invites applications for two tenure-track positions to commence Spring 2022. We emphasize qualitative research, social justice, and studies in consciousness and spirituality. The program offers dynamic undergraduate, masters, and doctoral degrees, and engages an integrative approach with roots in humanistic, existential/phenomenological, transpersonal, critical, and feminist psychologies. Successful candidates will teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and may teach online or in person on our Carrollton, Newnan, and Douglasville campuses.

Tenure-track faculty will have active research agendas and engage in departmental and university service activities. Qualified applicants will have a doctorate in psychology or related discipline (which must include 18 hours of graduate psychology credits). Please send curriculum vitae, names/contacts of three professional references, writing sample(s), and statement of your vision for psychology (including your teaching philosophy and research interests) to the link below. Review of applications to begin immediately and continue until the positions are filled. The University of West Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.
