Preyer Postdoctoral Scholar for Strengthening Families
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
School of Social Work

Position Summary: Supervised by Dr. Rebecca Macy, the School of Social Work at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is seeking an emerging scholar for a postdoctoral position to work with a team of faculty and students on research projects related to family, gender, and interpersonal violence (e.g., dating violence, domestic/partner violence, human trafficking, and/or sexual assault and violence). This postdoctoral scholar will support Macy and her team in: (a) conducting literature reviews; (b) conducting qualitative and quantitative data collection; (c) developing grant applications; (d) developing study designs, study protocols and IRB applications; (e) qualitative and quantitative data management and analysis; and (f) research and scholarly dissemination in scholarly as well as practitioner- and policy-based venues. While working with Macy and her team, the emerging scholar will have opportunities to develop capacities, expertise, and skills for independent research.

Estimated Appointment Duration: 12 months with the potential of an additional 12-month renewal for a total of 24 months

Educational Requirements: PhD in Social Work (preferred) or a PhD in a related field (e.g., family studies, public health, psychology, sociology).

Qualification and Experience: Candidates should have early-career scholarly and research experience in the areas of family, gender, and/or interpersonal violence (e.g., dating violence, domestic/partner violence, human trafficking, and/or sexual assault and violence). Highly competitive candidates will have experience with: (a) community-based and engaged scholarship; (b) developing applications for IRB board reviews; (c) intervention and prevention intervention development and research; (d) qualitative and quantitative data collection, data management, and data analysis; and/or (e) research and scholarly dissemination (e.g., briefs, conference presentations, peer-reviewed publications, reports, white papers). Highly competitive candidates will also have professional practice experience in human, social, and/or social work services.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, race, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.
