Position
Assistant/Associate Professor

Start Date
August 2019

Position Description
Teach courses at the graduate or undergraduate level in an area consistent with one's expertise, and serve as a student advisor. Conduct an active program of research and publication, including seeking external funding to support research. Engage in service to the school, college, university, profession, or community. This is a tenure-track position with expedited tenure review for appointment at the Associate level.

Qualifications
A doctorate in social work or related field and an M.S.W. Candidates should have a defined research agenda, a strong record of publication commensurate with the level of appointment, and evidence of potential to secure external funding. Applicants also must have teaching experience with evidence of teaching ability and effectiveness. An ideal candidate is someone interested in conducting collaborative interdisciplinary research relevant to emerging trends in social work.

About the School of Social Work
The School of Social Work, is part of Falk College at Syracuse University. The school, college, and university are strongly committed to working with populations from diverse backgrounds; community engagement; and interdisciplinary research that advances social work practice and individual and community well-being. Syracuse University, a Research 1 institution, has more than 20,000 students. It is located in a vibrant, progressive, and affordable mid-sized city.

The School has a diverse and collegial faculty with national recognition in mental health; family and workplace violence; child welfare; aging; Social Security; program evaluation; trauma; policies in mental health, disability, and health; and culturally-competent practice. The faculty collaborate in research with colleagues throughout Falk College and across the campus. The School has strong connections to community agencies in the 17 counties of Central New York. These agencies provide excellent field placements for students and welcoming sites for faculty research.
